EPR Snapshot for Envelope & Mail Producers

Summary

PRO: CAA expected to be selected as stewardship organization in 2026

Status: Implementation in Progress

Upcoming: Producers will be required to register through a new portal and pay initial startup fees in Q3 2026; a simplified supply report is due in late 2026

Maine was the first U.S. state to enact a packaging EPR law. Its scope is focused on packaging materials — it does not extend broadly to printed paper or direct mail. Implementation is ongoing in 2026 with the first annual producer payments not scheduled until September 2027.

What Is Covered

- Packaging materials sold or distributed in Maine
- Focus is on consumer packaging — general printed paper and communications mail are not the primary target

This is an important distinction: Maine's narrower scope means many envelope applications that function as communications rather than product packaging may not be covered. However, envelopes used as packaging (e.g., e-commerce mailers, product delivery packaging) should be analyzed.

Practical Takeaways

- If your primary products are communications envelopes (transactional, direct mail), Maine's scope is narrower and less likely to apply — but confirm with counsel
- If you produce packaging-style mailers or e-commerce envelopes, conduct a coverage analysis
- Monitor Maine DEP regularly — implementation details are still being finalized

What to Watch

- Maine DEP's Packaging Material Types List — monitor for updates that could affect envelope classification
- Stewardship organization selection — producers will need to register once a PRO is formally designated
- Producer guidance expected to be released as implementation progresses

Key Dates

- February 19, 2026 — DEP adopted Chapter 428 amendments and Packaging Material Types List
 - 2026 — Stewardship organization procurement and producer guidance underway
